Flooding, traffic jams, drought relief

At last — the big storm rolls in

Over an inch of rain with winds gusting up to 40 mph brought more drought relief to the Valley yesterday but also a scattering of rain-related traffic tie-ups and clogged storm drains forgotten in the past two dry winters.

Traffic on Interstate 580, east of Livermore near Greenville Road, was stalled yesterday morning after wind and slick pavement forced a tractor-trailer to hit the center divider and a following rig hit the outside rail as the driver swerved to avoid contact.

The first driver, Alfred Morales of Fresno, was treated for cuts and bruises at Valley Memorial Hospital then released. The second, Lowell Rodd of Fremont, was treated for cuts and bruises then transferred to Kaiser Hospital.

Other problems in the area were minor as rainfall totals for the season reached 6.42 inches in the Valley, 8.58 inches at Oakland airport and 9.32 inches in San Francisco.

Still, rangers in the East Bay Regional Park District reported it had no noticeable effect on the levels of Del Valle or Shadow Cliffs lakes.

In Pleasanton, public works crews spent most of the day unplugging sewers in the Del Prado and heritage Valley subdivisions and in the central area near the railroad crossings on St Marys and Division Streets.

"A perpetual problem — every rain," said Arnold Eaton who added that the overall picture was not bad.

He noted though, crews needed a high pressure water pump to flush some clogs, including several caused by large numbers of newspapers dumped in storm drains by carriers over the past months.

Pacific Gas & Electric, which was plagued with outages after a major wind and rain storm in December, reported no problems yesterday though about 300 customers on Livermore's north side lost electricity for four hours due to a non-weather problems, according to PG&E's local manager, Al McCarty.

In San Ramon, minor mudslides along Danville Road near Greenbrook Dr. were the only matters requiring attention by crews from Contra Costa County. The roads were not closed and traffic was unimpeded. "Generally the rain wasn't hard enough to cause any real problems," said Livermore's maintenance superintendent Bob Copeland.

City staffs finally get jobless pay

A state Senate committee approved a measure to extend unemployment insurance to 880,000 local public employees. Locally it means that approximately 595 employees of Livermore, Pleasanton and Dublin San Ramon Services District (DSRSD) will be covered by unemployment insurance now.

City and district finance directors agreed they had been expecting this action for some time. Now they just have to work out the mechanics of implementing the measure.

The employers will have to start contributing to the new insurance, which can be done by several different methods. The individual city or district could take out its own insurance policy, but the premiums probably will be quite high. Or they can reimburse the state when an employee leaves the job. This method is the one Pleasanton probably will use, indicated finance director Jim Walker.

"Cities don't normally have a big turnover, so that would be the best one for us, it seems at the time," he said. However, whatever decision is made will have to come through the city councils.

A third alternative would be a cooperative effort by several cities or districts.

Currently, no Valley public employees are covered by unemployment insurance, which would pay a percentage of their salaries if laid off.

Weather

Showers and gusty winds likely in the Valley through today with scattered thundershowers. Increasing cloudiness Saturday. Lows in the 40s.

We asked for it

The two-year long wait for rain has been answered with this latest deluge that flooded streets and snarled traffic.

They can't make monkeys of us

"Secular humanists are out to make monkeys out of all of us," charges Ron Carlson, president of Christian Ministries International of Minneapolis, a believer in the God-as-creator of all mankind theory.

Carlson has traveled and lectured in 40 countries and has studied at seven universities, including Hebrew University, Bethel Theological Seminary in Minneapolis, Cal State Hayward, and four other state and community colleges.

During the course of his 35-minute presentation to the Amador-Livermore Valley Exchange Club Thursday, Carlson repeatedly struck out at what he called a no-god humanism approach being taught in the schools.

Medi-cal, Medicare eligibility

Hospital accredited for two years

LIVERMORE — Valley Memorial Hospital has earned a two-year accreditation from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals, it was announced yesterday.

The accreditation, which is voluntary, means the hospital will be eligible to serve Medi-Cal and Medicare patients.

Valley Memorial has been accredited each of its 16 years, says spokeswoman Margy Odell.

Surveyors from the accreditation commission check patient policies and procedures, governing body and management and medical staff records, Odell says, with areas such as cleanliness left to the state Department of Health.

Nearly 40 percent of the 3,000 hospitals surveyed in 1977 failed to meet requirements of the commission. Many of these, including prestigious Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston which serves as the teaching hospital for Harvard Medical School, were only granted one-year accreditations.

The commission's decision for a two-year charter at the Livermore non-profit hospital was based on the results of a two-day inspection conducted in September of 1977.

The case was different in 1974, when surveyors made an unpublished August visit and said incomplete medical care documentation, insufficient written procedures and needed changes in bylaws merited a loss of accreditation.

Eaton to run for full judge's term

OAKLAND — Appointed two years ago this month by Governor Edmund G. Brown, Jr., Livermore Municipal Court Judge Mark Eaton declared yesterday he will seek election to the full four year term this year.

Eaton must formally declare his intention with the county registrar of voters between Jan. 29 and Feb. 8 and file nomination papers between Feb. 14 and March 5.

If no one else files for the — position — and if no one files as a write-in candidate by April 7 — Eaton automatically would be elected to the office.

If there is a challenge, the election would occur as part of the statewide primary election June 6.

County attacks Livermore parking limit

LIVERMORE — Storm clouds are gathering around the parking limit now being enforced on the Merchants' Parking Lot behind First Street and adjacent to the Municipal Court.

Alameda County will give "a very strong appeal" at Monday night's city council meeting protesting the two-hour limit approved last month.

City Manager Bill Parness said the county was "very upset, very angry" about the limit because of the extended time periods that jurors, witnesses or small claims people must use the lot for court business.

He said warnings currently are being given to violators of the time limit, but starting next week tickets will be given. However, in an effort to alleviate the county's problems Parness said special exempt passes will be given to the courts for the people who must park for longer periods. The passes will be stamped for the day used and will be displayed on the dashboard of cars.

This creates more paperwork for the courts, he said, and the county is not happy with the solution.

Alameda County pays 37 per cent of the cost of the Merchants' Parking Lot as its share of using the facility. A staff member from the county administrator's office is expected to appear in person at the council meeting at 8 p.m. regarding the subject.

Since the 2-hour limit was started a month ago, the lot now is only partially filled. Prior to that time it was usually full, but local merchants had protested that a few businesses had abused the unlimited parking time with all day customer parking.

Meanwhile the merchants' parking committee will continue its drive to create an assessment district to finance expanded parking facilities between L Street and Livermore Avenue and Railroad and another area between First and Second Streets and J and K Streets. The $960,000 plan would boost parking from the current 90 to 264 stalls, and the total amount could be spread out over the life of the bond, either 15 or 20 years.

The assessment district would be bordered by Railroad Avenue on the north, Third Street on the south, Maple Street on the east and L Street on the west.

A decision on whether or not to go for the assessment district and additional parking area must be made by June, when the current lease on the Merchants' Lot expires. At that time the lot will revert to private use, and probably be developed, said Parness.

The merchants' committee still must decide how to give some kind of credit to those businesses which already have parking available. In other cities, the committee discovered, the situation was handled by allowing property owners to use all of their property for development, building to the property lines. They agreed that totally exempting the parking lot property in existence would make the assessment too prohibitively high for the rest.

Parness said that Southern Pacific, one of the major property owners in the proposed district, does not like the idea but probably would not protest. Southern Pacific plans to put in two-for-one parking with its future large commercial development and probably would pay the assessment, too.

Realtor Charlie Frascisco, although emphasizing that he was not against the idea, argued that there probably isn't enough foot traffic to support more parking. "We don't have anything downtown," he told the early morning meeting of merchants. "Before you do anything, get some more big business and then get more parking."

Parness said a similar parking plan had been tried twice in the past, and failed. If one of those plans had been approved, the parking lot would be almost paid for now and there would have been more vacant lot choices for expanded parking, he said.

Merchants will be contacting the tenants and later the owners of the 69 parcel lots in the proposed district during the next week. Meetings may be set up later to help explain the drive and encourage signing of the petitions.

Evolution theories challenged

"Humanism teaches that there is no God," the 27-year old Carlson contended. "There has been a conscious cover-up in our high schools and universities, with biased suppositions being taught. The schools, particularly those versed in the sciences, are saying that 'we can't allow the theory of a creator to be taught beside evolution.'"

"The question we must ask our educators is, if there is no God, how do we get living matter from non-living matter," continued Carlson.

He prefaced the remark by stating, "the basic axiom is that life only generates from life. Spontaneous generation, a theory of evolutionists, was the foundation stone for this theory and it was disproved by Pasteur, among others, over a century ago."

"The evolutionists will say that back in antiquity there was a lake of inorganic matter that produced amino acids," Carlson continued by referring to the second law of thermodynamics — that everything will degenerate from simplicity and organization to chaos. "Carlson claims schools are teaching the opposite — 'going upward from chaos to simplicity.'"

Carlson said that epochal discoveries of the bones of homo sapiens by Dr. S.B. Leakey and his son, Richard, in the last two decades had shattered the theory that man descended from monkeys.

"Educators had taught the monkey-man theory for 70 years, until 1959 when Dr. S.B. Leakey excavated a skeleton of a homo sapiens estimated to be 1½ million years old," Carlson said. He claimed that later unearthings had placed homo sapiens back 3½ million years.

Carlson contended that the evolutionists' theory had permeated all strata of society today and "influences everything that happens."

The tall Minnesotan initially referred to an article last month in Time Magazine and materials issued by Time-Life that allegedly theorize life as emanating from single cell algae.

Head start

Kids are starting to learn early about fire prevention — but this is getting ridiculous! Actually, two-year-old Andrew Dolsen of Pleasanton wasn't in charge at his local fire station. But he did take the opportunity on a recent visit to scamper into the driver's seat, where he waited (and waited and waited) for some TV-type action. Smokey the Bear, look out.

Sex books' display law drawn

PLEASANTON — The city attorney will present a draft ordinance to city council Tuesday which would require that sexually-explicit magazines and books be displayed behind opaque racks or in a separate adult section of stores, but the attorney is recommending council not adopt the measure.

"Voluntary action by offended citizens is more effective," wrote city attorney Ken Scheidig in his report to council, noting that most stores in town already comply with the proposed ordinance. And he added that the only way to enforce such an ordinance would be through civil action in the courts, which could be costly and time-consuming.

Council member Ken Mercer first requested such an ordinance be researched in November, after he had several complaints from citizens who found display of certain magazines in stores where children shopped offensive.

A primary target of complaints was Express Liquors on First Street, which carries a large stock of sexual reading material. Scheidig wrote that store owner Sylvia Geller has said she will voluntarily cover her book and magazine racks without being forced to do so by an ordinance.

If passed by council, the ordinance would restrict publications which have "explicit sexual depictions" on the cover. That material would have to be either displayed in racks which hide the cover or sold in a special area of stores in which children can't go.

The ordinance wouldn't affect magazines or books which contain sexual photographs or drawings inside, but not on the cover.

After researching for over a month, Scheidig said he's found that stores which offend shoppers are best brought into line by citizen action such as picketing or boycotting. He also noted that explicit books sold at Express Liquors are not judged "pornographic" by the District Attorney's office.

Council will consider the ordinance Tuesday, 8 p.m., in council chambers at 30 West Angela Street.

No decision yet on Sunol development

OAKLAND — Alameda County supervisors split 2-2 on whether to allow Sinbad 720 to create five buildable lots on 691 acres in Kilcare Woods near Sunol yesterday.

The matter was continued to 9 a.m. next Tuesday in the supervisors' chambers, 1221 Oak Street, when Supervisor John George, absent yesterday, presumably will be there to break the tie.

Supervisors Valerie Raymond and Fred Cooper opposed the development; Joseph Bort and Charles Santana favored it.

Cooper said he might change his mind in March when a report on the whole question of the future of agricultural lot sizes in the area reaches him, but the applicant did not want to wait until then to get a decision.

Chairman Santana chided Cooper, saying that he waited almost a full year for the report now expected in March. "You should have got on staff about it sooner," said Santana.

Cooper opposes the development because it conflicts with the agricultural designation of the land on the general plan. It is not five families going into agriculture on 100 to 200 acre lots, but five families who want large rural residential lots, said Cooper.

The applicant's attorney acknowledged that the land can't support economically feasible agriculture, but felt the use was compatible with the general plan for the area and also thought the county "changed the game" in the middle since the applicant applied a year ago. He didn't expand on the last statement.

Raymond felt that five more lots would mean that much more strain on services in Sunol.

"I'm already getting complaints about traffic from Sunol residents. The highway patrol has the responsibility there and we don't even control them. And they told me they had a personnel freeze in 1975 and can't patrol there as much as they'd like," said Raymond.

Margaret Tracy, a leader in Preserve Area Ridge-lands Committee, spoke against the development and also asked supervisors to consider raising the minimum agricultural lot size to 500 or 1,000 acres to prevent what in her view amounts to large-sized "rural residential" development.

Bort commented that if people have enough money, they can force the rural residential lot sizes up to 500 or 1,000 acres, so it's no guarantee that uses on such big areas will be agricultural. However, he has asked staff to look into the feasibility of raising the minimum size to 500 or 1,000 acres, he added.

Heavy but welcome

The Alameda County corporation yard in Livermore reported minor problems near Dublin, but in the outlying areas, not the sub divisions, and on Wente Street and Mines Road.

Flight activity at Livermore airport was light, according to the tower, largely because of gusting southerly winds of 20-25 knots (33-41 mph).

This storm, forecast to bring showers through today, came from the Western Pacific then stalled over the mouth of Oregon's Columbia River, according to the National Weather Service. Two more, one 1,500 miles offshore near the International Date Line and one east of the Philippine Islands seemingly show a Pacific storm track has been reestablished though neither are Gulf of Alaska systems that are most helpful to the Sierra snowpack.

Still, blizzard conditions over Donner Summit forced the closing of Interstate 80 and several ski resorts yesterday afternoon. Highway 50 to South Lake Tahoe remained open with travelers warnings posted.

Should sheriff, coroner split?

DANVILLE — The combination sheriff/coroner job in Contra Costa County is under fire by opponents who want the position split into two separate categories.

Eric Hasseltine, Contra Costa County's fifth district supervisor, said he was surprised at the "emotional intensity" the issue raised.

during a three - and - a - half hour hearing Tuesday." Hasseltine mentioned this during his liaison session yesterday at the Danville Hotel.

Opponents named conflict of interest on the part of the sheriff/coroner as their chief concern, Hasseltine explained.

He said opponents contended people often die while in a detention facility and/or during a confrontation with law enforcement agents. The opposition indicated such circumstances could place the "sheriff" in direct conflict with the "coroner's" job of investigating deaths from unnatural causes, Hasseltine continued.

Hasseltine pointed out

1,100 sheriff/coroner investigations had taken place since 1968.

"No conflict of interest problems have been raised during the ensuing time span. Built-in restrictions cover the bases regarding the possibility of a conflict of interest arising."

Hasseltine admitted he was still trying to sort out pros and cons of the issue.

Election of sheriff/coroner, or an alternative to the combination, is slated for the June 6 primary, according to the county elections office.

Hasseltine said 37 out of California's 58 counties have the sheriff/coroner combo.

He added that although a county survey showed there would be no economic difference if the job was separated, he couldn't see how the department could be split into two and not cost more money.

A member of the liaison session audience said he thought the present set up was the best. He contended the sheriff and deputies were already trained to spot "unnatural circumstances."

Hasseltine said someone suggested reports of "suspicious" deaths should go directly to the county board of supervisors.

"That would not afford any protection whatsoever," Hasseltine said. "We aren't trained in investigative techniques. It seems best to have that authority vested in trained, elected personnel."

U.S. Court next Hearst case stop

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst's federal bank robbery conviction, upheld by an appellate court, now heads for the U.S. Supreme Court.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals refused Wednesday to reconsider its Nov. 2, 1977, ruling upholding the guilty verdict.

Her attorney, Al Johnson, said he was "disappointed" but that notice of appeal would be filed to the high court within 30 days.

"We are optimistic that the Supreme Court will recognize that there are grave constitutional issues and agree to hear the matter soon," he said.

Miss Hearst, sentenced to seven years in prison, is free on $1 million bail pending appeals.

Assistant U.S. Attorney David Bancroft said no decision had been made on whether or not the government will ask that her bail be revoked and she be returned to prison.

The appellate court rejected Miss Hearst's contention that her trial was prejudiced when evidence of her activities after the April 1974 bank heist was introduced at the trial.

"Dolly says I'm the opposite sex and I say she is. Who's right?"

Dr. Joyce Brothers

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My husband and I were prepared for the horrors of trying to maintain good family relations once the kids were in their late teens, dating (or perhaps now I should say sleeping with the opposite sex) and being tempted by drugs and alcohol, but war at home has started much sooner than we'd anticipated. We have a son, 13, and a daughter, 15, and life is far from pleasant. Fortunately, neither of them seems to have discovered sex, and drugs are out of the picture. Mostly what is upsetting to us, however, is that they seem to hate us more each day. No matter what we do, we are the enemy. We want to live through it, but how long will it go on? Have we failed somewhere? H. R.

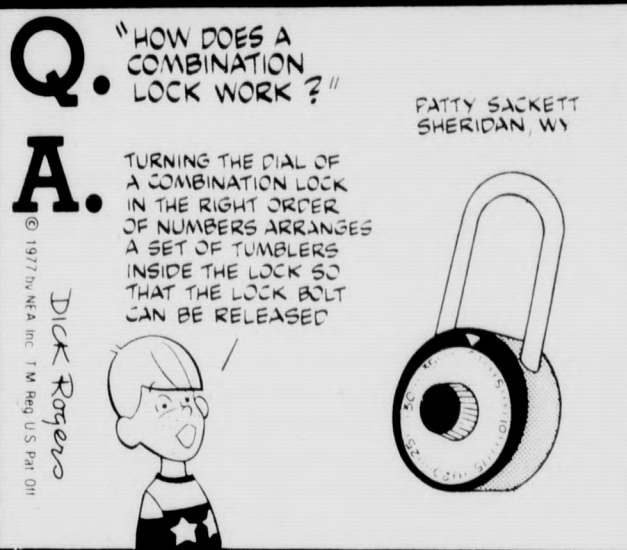

DEAR H.R.: Don't worry too much about having failed in the past. Every parent makes mistakes and if you have, there's no way you can go back and correct them. Part of what you're going through sounds like classic growing pains and probably will pass in the next year or so. This doesn't mean there won't be other problems to replace them, of course. Youngsters your children's age often go through stages of rebellion toward their parents as well as the entire adult world. They tend to be erratic and unpredictable as they stumble about in search of their identity. Personality changes occur at about the same time as body changes. It's tough on parents, but it's must tougher on the struggling children. Believe me, it will pass.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: How do you make a husband slow down? Mine works like a maniac and is reluctant to take time off. Weekends mean parties that always involve business. He feels pressure at them too and the result is that he frequently overdrinks. Sunday is hangover day. By the time he's over that, he's back on his deadly schedule. We don't need the money he's making. Seven years ago when he hit 40, we had enough to retire, but that's when he really put on the extra fuel. Suddenly he wasn't happy and did better than everyone else in his office. Who said life begins at 40? B.C.

DEAR B.C.: I don't know and I honestly don't know that you can slow him down without his cooperation. It would appear that your husband is running from himself, from

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

Q. "HOW DOES A COMBINATION LOCK WORK?"
A. TURNING THE DIAL OF A COMBINATION LOCK IN THE RIGHT ORDER OF NUMBERS ARRANGES A SET OF TUMBLERS INSIDE THE LOCK SO THAT THE LOCK BOLT CAN BE RELEASED.
FATTY SACKETT SHERIDAN, WY.
DICK ROBERTS

Some locks don't need a key to open them. They are called combination, or dial, locks, because a person must turn a dial in the right combination of numbers to unlock them.

Each turn of the dial makes a set of tumblers or wheels inside the lock move into the right positions so that the lock bolt inside is released.

A dial on a combination lock is usually marked from 1 to 100. The average combination lock may have several thousand possible combinations, of which only one will open the lock.

To fasten the lock, the dial is merely spun round to scramble the arrangement of the tumblers.

Combination locks are often used on safes, since any key lock can be picked (unlocked) by an expert. Some bank vaults have time locks. A clock mechanism in the vault door permits persons to open the vault only at a certain time, even if they know the combination.

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 52 years of age and have been having hot flashes for two years. Rather than take estrogen I decided to tolerate them, but after two years I'm wondering if they will ever cease. I haven't menstruated for six months, and during this time I seem to have lost interest in everything. I have always been a person who enjoyed life to the fullest, whether it be scrubbing a floor or going to a party, and now I have to push myself to do everything I do and become very disinterested in a short time. I can't stick at anything too long.

I'd like to get through this period as normally as possible, but I can't seem to come up with any answers to my problems to help myself, so any advice from you would be much appreciated.

I find that going to bed and going to sleep seems to be the easiest way around this whole situation, but this certainly doesn't seem to me to be the way to handle any problems.

DEAR READER — You should be getting close to the end of the time you will experience hot flashes. I might say that relief of hot flashes is the one thing that physicians agree estrogen does for menopausal women. It will relieve them.

You really should talk to your doctor about whether or not you should take any estrogen medicines. There are several kinds, and if you are really low on estrogen he may think the benefits from a small amount would be helpful in your case. Don't let all the news stories about the dangers of estrogen frighten you. There are some dangers for some women with some medicines used in some treatment schedules. Note I have said, some, some, some, some. It doesn't apply to all women all the time.

There are very good studies that show that when you consider the total picture of a woman's health, not just the narrow concept of any increased risk of cancer of the uterus, taking estrogens may significantly prolong a woman's life and may protect her from cancer. Lung cancer may well be prevented by the use of estrogen, and in a good study there were fewer heart attacks and strokes in women taking estrogen after a surgical menopause than in women who did not take estrogen. The difference was significant. By deciding on your own that you don't need estrogen you may be subjecting yourself to unnecessary discomfort and closing the door on some real benefits that you might get if you needed it.

You are right about going to bed. That will just make you more tired. I'd suggest some organized group physical activity for you, join a health club and exercise regularly. The change from the home environment may be good for you. Exercise is useful in helping to regain your energy.

win at bridge

spades denied any ace, king or singleton but showed good trump support so South went on to six.

With any lead but a trump, South could play ace and one diamond and wind up ruffing two diamonds and a club in dummy. One trump lead would not stop this plan, but two trump leads would.

Then, East showed out and South saw that if he could get East to win the diamond he would still have three trumps left in dummy.

There didn't appear to be any good way to work this out directly, but South found an indirect way with a 50 percent chance for success.

He led his low club. If West held the queen this would do no good, but East held her ladyship and had to win the trick.

Now it did not matter what East led. South discarded a diamond on a high club, cashed his red aces and claimed the last seven tricks on an unbreakable cross ruff.

Vulnerable: North-South, Dealer: South, Opening lead: Deuce of spades.

Catholics, Protestants concepts close

An ecumenical team says that the changing ways of Roman Catholicism have led other Christians to consider the "positive values" of a modified Roman papacy for a reunited Christianity.

The pope's office, a main target of past Protestant opposition and charges of repressive authoritarianism, was portrayed now as tending to become a unifying center, fostering home rule of the churches.

This was the assessment made of the newly developing pattern of the papacy by the U.S. joint Roman Catholic-Episcopal consultation this week in its second report in the last eight days on 12 years of unity talks.

People need to gain "appreciation for the evolution that has occurred in both our churches since our division," said the new report, dealing with the thorniest, old issue of all—the exercise of authority.

Citing "a general trend to decentralize the governance of the Roman Catholic Church today," the report said:

"The entry of Rome into the ecumenical movement has encouraged Anglicans (Episcopalians) and other Christians in the West to consider the positive values of a universal primacy (papal office) in a reunited church."

A similar evaluation of a reformed-style papacy also has come from the joint Lutheran-Roman Catholic dialogue team.

Sandia honors six staffers in energy research service

LIVERMORE — Sandia Laboratories honored six employees last month in recognition of their service in the Department of Energy research and development program. The employees were awarded personal jewelry bearing the Labs' Thunderbird emblem. Stanford G. Cain of Harvard Way received a 25-year award; Gerald L. Williams of Irene Way was given a 20-year emblem; and John W. Dini of DeSoto Way received a 15-year

State stalls ruling on reclaimed waters

SACRAMENTO — Public criticism of a proposal by two state agencies to allow use of reclaimed water for irrigation and ground-water recharge purposes has led to an additional 15-day period for comments on the plan.

The state Water Resources Control Board and state Department of Health held a joint meeting Wednesday to discuss a proposed memorandum of understanding that would permit additional uses of treated wastewater.

Some persons said the proposal would take power away from regional boards of the state Water Quality Control Board, a spokesman said. Others complained that because of the Christmas season, they had little or no advance notice of the proposal.

The agencies decided to extend the period to receive written comments on the plan to Jan. 19. Action on the proposal by the Water Resources Control Board will not take place until Feb. 14 at the earliest.

If approved, the plan would cause the Department of Health to review proposed reclamation projects on a case by case basis. Regional boards of the state Water Quality Control Board would closely monitor approved uses and take corrective action if problems developed.

Possible applications mentioned in the proposal include irrigation of parks, playgrounds and school grounds, and recharge of underground water supplies using reclaimed water.

Valley residents opposed to the planned $28 million sewage export pipeline had earlier proposed major reclamation projects as alternatives to the wastewater disposal problem. Consultants to the project rejected reclamation proposals because of their size and restrictions on the use of reclaimed water.

Persons interested in commenting on the plan can write to the state Water Resources Control Board, 1416 Ninth St., Sacramento.

Raymond gets post

OAKLAND — One year after taking office as the Valley's supervisor, Valerie Raymond finally got a job as a delegate to a regional commission — after serving as an alternate to three commissions.

The delegate's jobs on the board tend to be held by senior members Joseph Bort and Fred Cooper. Raymond was headed for her fourth alternate's job this week, replacing one-year veteran John George, when she complained about it.

An alternate has to stay informed of the regional board's work, but has no real voting power in the long run, said Raymond.

Bort, the delegate to the

AV stunned in EBAL cage opener

Granada's Scott Morton (32) grabs the ball between two Livermore defenders. (Times photo by John Ramos)

Favorites fell like flies Wednesday night as the East Bay Athletic League basketball season opened up.

The biggest blow came from Pleasanton, where pre-season favorite Amador Valley lost on its own home court for the first time in two years of EBAL play to a patient Monte Vista squad, 41-40.

Next was in Livermore, as Granada High's charged-up Matadors almost blew Livermore away in the first quarter before hanging on and holding off countless Cowboys rallies for a 56-47 win.

In Danville, San Ramon recovered from a disastrous December to cut up California, 67-51. The Grizzlies came in to the game with a fine pre-season under their belt, but failed to stop the Wolves.

In a game rated a near-tossup beforehand, Dublin High showed why they consider themselves a force to be contended with this year after a 54-41 win over Foothill High. The Gaels were 3-7 after a rugged pre-season, the Falcons 2-8 under similar conditions.

After tonight's games, the EBAL may still see a four-way tie for first place. Every pairing features a winner and a loser from opening night.

In probably the most significant game, Granada returns to its home gym to host Amador. Another interesting game pits Livermore at Dublin, while San Ramon tries to keep pace against in Danville and California hosts sky-high Monte Vista in San Ramon.

If the Dons are to rebound from their loss to Monte Vista, they will have to be more intense at the outset of the game. Against the Mustangs, they scored just four points in the second quarter to trail 24-12 at halftime.

Turnovers hurt the Dons, while the Mustangs were hitting well from the floor in a first quarter which saw MV take a 11-8 lead. The Mustangs scored the first seven points of the second quarter to take an 18-8 lead.

Amador rallied to close to within one point with 11 seconds remaining in the game, but a pair of free throws by high-scoring forward Randy Woods iced the contest.

The 'Stangs are now 2-7 overall, while the Dons dropped to 4-7. Ken Noble led Amador scoring with 14 points, while Rick Howard was limited to ten.

Granada played the exact opposite role of Amador in their win over Livermore, playing one of their best quarters of the year in the first period before staying off the hard-charging Cowboys the remainder of the contest.

Livermore led once in the game, at 2-0, on a pair of free throws by Dick Patterson. Ironically, those were Patterson's last points until moments before the half, when he hit a jump shot. That factor alone told the story of a tough Mat defense which limited the 'Poke big guns to low-percentage shots. Patterson did come back to score ten in the second half for a 14-point total.

Granada prevented any type of running game the Cowboys tried, getting back well on defense after every basket. After the 'Pokes took a short-lived 2-0 lead, Granada scored 12 points in succession to take a 12-2 lead with 1:05 to go in the quarter.

Center Scott Morton and guard Pat Fracisco led the charge, which featured a bucket by every starter on the floor. Morton scored four on a jumper from the free throw line and a fast-break lay-in, while Fracisco meshed a pair of jumpers. Dan Lambert, who led all scorers with 24 points, popped home a short jumper while Matt Watson and Steve Robison had lay-ins.

Granada's 14-5 first quarter lead was challenged in the second quarter. Behind 22-11 with 4:36 to go, Livermore ran off a string of ten straight points to cut the gap to 22-21. Guard John Farfan hit on four free throws and a jumper to key the drive.

But free throw by Fracisco with :07 left, followed by a Morton offensive rebound and subsequent lay

- in after Lambert missed a shot following a steal, gave Granada a 25-21 lead at half.

The lead hovered around five points for most of the third quarter, Granada maintaining a 36-29 lead going into the fourth.

With the Mats harboring a 44-41 lead 4:43 away from the end, the Dan Lambert Free Throw Clinic was held, or so it seemed. The senior forward went to the line ten times, hit on all ten throws in the quarter and sparked a 10-2 surge that put the game on ice, 54-43, with 1:14 to play.

Morton backed up Lambert with 14 points, hitting seven of ten shots from the field. He also garbled 11 rebounds, while Brian Schweiger of Livermore kept the 'Pokes in the game with ten rebounds. Granada shot 52 percent from the field to Livermore's 37 percent.

In Danville, the Cal Grizzly hopes of a winning EBAL season were temporarily dashed by San Ramon. It was hard to figure the Wolves could compete with the Grizzlies, considering Cal beat Albany by ten points in pre-season, while the Wolves lost to the same Albany team by 37 points. So much for common opponents as a factor in deciding basketball games.

San Ramon jumped ahead early, 16-7, before Cal cut the margin to 16-15 with an 8-0 stretch at the end of the first quarter.

The Wolves broke away midway through the second quarter to take a 36-28 lead at halftime, but a trio of lay-ins by Brian Green lifted Cal back into the game at the outset of the second half, 36-34.

But the Wolves countered with a pair of 6-0 streaks in the third quarter, keeping the lead in the fourth to take the 67-51 win.

Mike Campbell led the Wolves with 22 points, while Darrin Johnson scored 13. Cal was led by Chuck Cary, who scored 12, and Green, who also bucketed 12. Joe Raposa pumped home 12 points, too, while guard Daryl Lamb found eight.

Don girls open in style

The reigning East Bay Athletic League champion Amador Valley High girls' basketball team opened its season in San Ramon last night and kept its hot streak going by defeating the San Ramon Wolves 56-35 in a hard-fought battle.

But the Dons weren't assured of victory until after the half, as the Wolves were able to utilize a half-court press in the first half. Dons coach Lottie Bain was ready for it though.

"We expect it from every team," (the press). We work with it in practice," she said.

What really hurt the Dons early was what made the Wolves howl too. Turnovers, no-followed shots or rebounds. "At the beginning, it was the lack of rebounds that was the problem," Bain explained.

San Ramon coach Leland Sandler said, despite the loss, he wasn't displeased.

"We really learned a lot. Our defense was good in the first half, but our offense didn't work in the second half," he said.

The Dons couldn't get to the boards early, and forced shots from the outside. The Wolves were out-zoning them, as well as containing top-scoring Don Sheryl Withoft in the first period.

Bain said it didn't matter much, though. "If they hold her, we have other people. We're really well-rounded," she said in praise of our squad.

The awesome Marian Hagler dominated the game for the Dons with a high of eight rebounds and 14 points.

"She played an excellent game for us," Bain said.

It was the EBAL season-opener for both teams.

Dublin 35, Granada 34
Dublin took a thrilling victory over the host Matadors as eight Gaels scored. Joanne Callender tallied 12 points to lead the winners.

Both teams were tied at the first quarter, 6-6 but the Gaels outscored the hosts by one point in both the second and third quarters to gain the win.

Kim Cupps sparked the Matadors' attack with 14 points and Lynn Bousliman added eight markers. Malsam had 12.

Forfeits aid Matador win

Two early forfeits took the suspense out of Granada High Schools' 34-28 East Bay Athletic League wrestling win over the host Dublin Gaels on yesterday's opening night of the season.

Jeff Beringer and Tom Sherman claimed walk-over wins that put the Matadors ahead, 27-3, after six of the 13 matches.

But, although Dublin outscored Granada by 18 points the rest of the way, an unlikely string of pins over the defending team champions was needed — and not forthcoming.

Not that Granada didn't earn the victory. No one can know that the Mats wouldn't have picked up the maximum six points had the two non-contests been wrestled.

And five Mats won their bouts, two by pins.

In the curtain-raising 95-pound match, Rick Quiroz pinned Dublin's Gary Remer after 1:51 and, minutes later, Roy Davis flattened Joel Kallman at 1:44 of the second round to win the 120-pound bout.

And, if he didn't pin his man, Bill Freeman did everything else, piling up a 20-0 superior decision over Kevin Kennedy.

After that match, however, the Gaels closed out the evening with three straight wins, good for the maximum 18 points and one more when a team point was taken from Granada's column following the 191-pound event.

Sean Kennedy got the rally rolling with a pin of Tom Hoeft in the 175-pound bout while Dave Kissel and Jerone King followed by flatbacking Mats' John Bailey and Brad Deerman.

Amador Valley High School opened the East Bay Athletic League season with a crushing 52-19 win over San Ramon last night in Pleasanton.

Steve Potts, a standout from last season, led the way for Amador Valley, posting a first round pin of Rick Strand in the 114-pound division. He pinned Strand with just 30 seconds gone in the match.

Rains wash away harness racing

SAN MATEO — The recent heavy rains brought about the cancellation of yesterday afternoon's harness program at Bay Meadows, with the trotters and Pacers slated to get back into action tonight (weather permitting) at 7:45.

With the racing strip deep in mud and water and only one starting gate available, yesterday's nine-race card was called off at 9:55 a.m. by Dr. William J. Ward, president and general manager of the California Horse Racing Association.

"The condition of the race track was going to make it extremely difficult for horses and drivers to see and we felt in the interest of all concerned, we should cancel," said Dr. Ward. "Also we did not have an auxiliary starting gate available, which, under the conditions, would have been a precarious position under which to start the program."

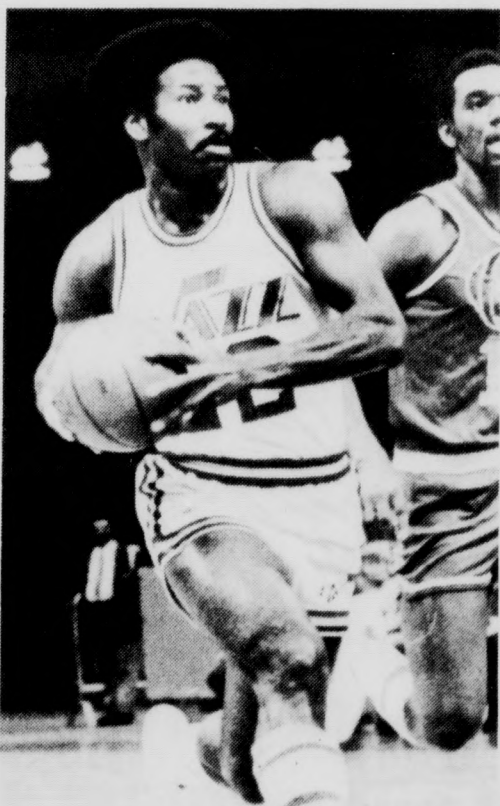

Both starting gates went out of commission Wednesday afternoon, forcing the cancellation of the last race. One was repaired and ready for use yesterday, but the other was not.

Both gates will be functioning tonight, according to starter Gil Thompson, who explained the very sloppy conditions contributed to their malfunctions on Wednesday.

Warriors play Detroit

Nate, Charles: a bittersweet exchange

Nate Williams

OAKLAND — Nate Williams is coming home and Charles Johnson, if he wants to continue his professional basketball career, will be leaving home for the first time.

While the Golden State Warriors were whipping Chicago Wednesday night, Scotty Stirling, their chief executive officer, was trading this year's second-round draft choice and a bundle of money to New Orleans for Williams.

A couple of hours later, Johnson, dressed in a typically casual blue sweater, strolled toward a back exit, slowing his pace for a last glance around and was gone, released by coach Al Attles.

"This was the toughest cut, I've ever made. If some one else could have taken this job for 24 hours, I'd have let him have it," said Attles. "I've cut a lot of kids I'd gotten to know, but this is a veteran, that always hurts worse."

Johnson, who'd failed when given a chance to start in recent weeks, probably hurt worse. Still the holder of many South Peninsula League records after a career at Redwood City's Sequoia High School, Johnson went on to captain the University of California varsity before beginning a six-year career with the Warriors.

With a 40.9 shooting percentage this season, CJ may have trouble catching on with another club and, perhaps, adjusting to playing outside the Bay Area for the first time.

Williams, a graduate of McClymonds High School in Oakland, was averaging eight points per game while playing about a third of each Jazz game this season. He'll be in uniform tonight when the Warriors host Detroit at 8 p.m. (KNBR-680, radio).

"After looking at our club, we didn't know if Sonny Parker could always get inside like he did Wednesday (for a career high 24 points) and we need some one to give Rick Barry a break," explained Attles.

"He's one of the numerous men in the league who are supposed to be offensive players," Attles said evenly. "We'll find out."

He added that the Warriors needed to protect themselves against the possibility that Barry, who has been held to a single field goal in each of the last two games, is in decline.

In the same vein, Attles said no player on the roster is untouchable and Stirling won't quit negotiating trades until the Feb. 1 trade deadline.

"Ma Bell is making a fortune off the Warriors this season," he quipped.

E.C. Coleman, whose offensive upsurge — eight of nine from the field Wednesday — is as unexpected as Barry's slump, is glad to see Williams, a good friend, out from under the shadow of Jazz gunner Pete Maravich.

"Nate is a tremendous shooter, he's big, strong and fast for a man his size," Coleman said. "It takes a while to get New Orleans out of your system."

"They've got one man controlling everything," scowled the recently liberated Jazz. "You've got to work, whether you're an artist, a piano player or whatever. You have to work or you lose it."

Senior Bowl

Card offensive stars eyed by NFL scouts

MOBILE, Ala. - Besides the top college football seniors, this town is overrun with NFL scouts, who will be carefully watching the prospective draftees in tomorrow's Senior Bowl here.

Among the West's team, are three offensive all-stars, who are on the college Bowl circuit. All of them will be wearing the cardinal and white of Stanford for the last time.

They are quarterback Guy Benjamin, wide receiver James Lofton, and tackle Gordy King.

The trio barely had time to fly in to Palo Alto for a change of clothes before they were in the air again. They had been kept busy in El Paso, Texas last weekend overwhelming Louisiana State in a 24-14 upset in the Sun Bowl.

Stanford head coach Bill Walsh, although aware that he is losing a winning combination, predicted that each of the departing stars would have no trouble ending up as first round draft picks, especially Benjamin.

"Without a doubt, he is the best college quarterback in football. I don't care what anyone else says, he's No. 1," Walsh said.

Benjamin completed 23 of 36 passes for 269 yards against LSU, which set a new Sun Bowl record. But on the receiving end of those completions was Lofton, who set some records of his own.

Lofton, who will don a

Cardinal uniform once more for track in the Spring, nabbed 12 touchdown receptions during the season, a school record in a single season. Although it doesn't count on the record because it wasn't a regular season game, Lofton unofficially shattered his total by picking off two passes from Benjamin in the endzone, one for 49 yards.

According to Benjamin, the Texas showdown happened as it was planned, a lot of ball-control, with a few big plays mixed in. He gave credit to his completion expert, Lofton.

"We just put him in motion. Running laterally he's sen, who helped the 6-6 sprinter with little more than keeping his jersey clean.

Lofton is paradoxical faster than anybody. The only thing not to do to James is underthrow him," Benjamin said.

Lofton and Benjamin have quickly established their seasonal success this year, with the aid of Walsh. Lofton admittedly might never have seen a pro scout if not for the coach. He kept the boards warm for the majority of his four years because of Jack Christen-about his rise. He said he is surprised, but then he isn't.

"It surprises me because it happened so quickly. But it doesn't because I feel I can do all the things other good receivers do," he predicted. "I didn't really feel like I had anything to prove. The coaches knew my worth," Lofton said.

The three Cards, who aren't as pumped up for the game as some might expect, are still aware of the consequences of it. It's a good bet that they will be playing as if their careers depended on it, which they do.

Led Cowboy defense

Martin defensive player of year

DALLAS — Harvey Martin's reaction was vintage Harvey Martin: "Have they run out of names or something?"

Martin's reaction was understandable. It had never happened to a Dallas Cowboy.

Not Bob Lilly nor Chuck Howley nor Lee Roy Jordan had ever been named The Associated Press National Football League Defensive Player of the Year.

"Great, absolutely great!" was Martin's reaction when he was indeed convinced that his 23 quarterback sacks from his right end position had impressed writers and sportscasters in balloting as the NFL's premier defender.

Martin, who set a club record for sacks, trapped NFL quarterbacks more times than some teams. For example, Dallas' Super Bowl XII opponent, Denver, only had 35 sacks as a team.

"I'm pleasantly surprised but I think things like that are the result of hard work on a good football team," said Martin. "If we don't win the Super Bowl, it won't mean a thing."

Martin said, "I kept a lot of pressure on myself. It also helped having (tackle) Randy White playing next to me. They couldn't over load on me every play."

"I'll tell you, Randy is so great I'm going to really have to get on the stick next year."

Cowboy defensive coordinator Ernie Stautner, whose specialty is the line where he was a former All-Pro for the Pittsburgh Steelers, said, "I'm so happy for Harvey. I know Lilly should have received the award but he never did — and he should have."

"Martin worked extremely hard. He really turned around because when he first came to us (from East Texas State) he had a tendency to loaf in practice. He doesn't do that any more. He is just as intense in practice as he is in a game."

Stautner said, "He's the fastest defensive end we've ever had. And he can run over you when he wants to."

Martin was a catalyst in Dallas' 23-6 National Conference victory over Minnesota, recovering two fumbles.

"Randy White, of course, helped Harvey this year but Harvey has a great attitude and goes 100 percent all the time," said Stautner.

"I just wish something like this would have happened to the Dallas Cowboys a long time ago," he added.

City council to mull $3 million in claims

PLEASANTON — Five claims which could total almost $3 million have been filed against the city.

City council is expected to deny all the claims during Tuesday's meeting at 8 p.m., 30 West Angela Street. Once denied, the individual parties will have to sue the city for their grievances or drop the issues. Of the claims, two are asking $1 million each.

Andreas Costi is asking $1 million, asserting the city did not provide adequate warnings to drivers approaching railroad tracks crossing Bernal Avenue.

Costi, of San Leandro, was a passenger in a car which was hit by a Western Pacific Railroad train in August. His attorney claims his injuries were partly caused by "negligent omission" by the city. The city is expected to argue that the tracks had sufficient warning devices in front of them.

Michael Philis, another a passenger in that car, is asking the city for $30,000 damages. His attorney argues that the railroad crossing was "defective" because no barrier forced cars to stop while a train approached the tracks.

Another claim for $1 million involves the sexual assault on one young girl and an attempted assault on the other. Beverly Sundstrom, mother of the two juveniles, cites the police force here as "irresponsible."

According to the claim, police stopped a car carrying the two girls and arrested the driver, their stepfather, in July, for drunk driving. Police apparently later released the girls into the custody of other adult passengers who later sexually assaulted them. This case is currently in court.

Morrison Homes, a large developing company here, is charging the city was negligent in putting in a main trunk sewer line easement along Valley Trails homes. Two of those homes have slipping foundations, which the company says is caused by faulty construction of the city's easement.

Director of Public Works and Utilities Alan Campbell told The Times mid-December that a cursory examination lead him to believe the easement had nothing to do with the foundation problem. The city attorney is asking council to deny this claim, along with the others.

Morrison is asking "no less than $30,000" and maybe much more because the extent of damage to homes due to earth slippage isn't yet known, according to the Morrison attorney. The owner of one home which has slipped at 3887 Mesa Verde Court has, in turn, filed a claim against Morrison Homes.

George Smith, a 79-year-old man who tripped over railroad tracks on Main Street in May, is asking $500,000 in damages now from the city. His attorney argues that the tracks and street construction were not kept up. Smith fractured his hip and has had two operations since the accident, according to his attorney.

GE plant' reopening in doubt

PLEASANTON — Mayor Robert Philcox's effort to get the large nuclear reactor (GETR) at General Electric's Vallecitos Nuclear Center re-opened has not met with success.

Philcox wrote letters to Representatives Pete Stark and Ron Dellums, as well as to Richard Kennedy of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, in mid-December. He has heard from only Stark (Dem. Oakland) thus far.

"Frankly, I don't feel qualified to comment on the safety of the facility (Vallecitos)," replied Stark in a recent letter, adding that he has "urged the NRC to move things along as quickly as possible."

Cheese firm clear of discharge permit

PLEASANTON — The Cheese Factory is in full compliance with its second chance waste discharge permit so far, a city report detailed yesterday.

City council, after hours of debate, granted the Factory a new permit late November, but stipulated the business would have to meet certain permit conditions within 30 days or be shut down with a cease and desist order.

According to the report, the Pleasanton landmark is now meeting permit conditions which were previously violated. The Factory has also hired two engineering consultants to do preliminary studies on how the business can meet other discharge levels.

Factory owner George Spiliotopoulos must report back to council with plans to meet all sewage discharge levels within five months.

The Factory has exceeded levels of biochemical oxygen demand, chemical oxygen demands and PH in its discharge for years. Substances used in processing cheese make it difficult to meet those levels, according to Spiliotopoulos, who says he will probably need special and expensive equipment.

In November the city gave him 180 days in which to hire a technical consultant and figure a way to meet all discharge levels. Director of Public Works and Utilities Alan Campbell this week wrote, in a report to council, that the Cheese Factory seems to be well on its way to meeting permanent regulations.

Council hopeful's papers questioned

PLEASANTON — The city's election officer has called into question the candidacy of Thomas Michael Minahan — one of seven candidates running for the two city council seats open March 7.

Election officer Larry Miller said yesterday that Minahan, a 26-year-old self-employed carpenter, may have only 17 valid signatures on his nomination papers. Each candidate is required to obtain 20 signatures of registered voters in town to qualify as a candidate.

When double-checking Minahan's signatures with the county Registrar of Voters, Miller found three names not on file, one person registered in a different precinct and two signatures he couldn't decipher.

Miller said the signature of a person registered in a different precinct than the individual's address will probably qualify because courts have upheld that it is the intent of a registered voter that counts. Current council member Joyce LeClaire faced that problem two years ago and the courts upheld her position that all who signed her papers were voters in Pleasanton and, thus, should qualify.

Minahan told The Times he thinks the two signatures which couldn't be deciphered are registered voters. If that is proven true once the correct spelling is known, Minahan would have the necessary 20 signatures to qualify his candidacy. It is also possible, he added, that the three persons not on file with the county registered late, in which case the county may not have their formal registration on record yet due to paperwork.

Miller said all nomination papers of other candidates Edmond Alves, Walt Wood, Stan Kephart, Oliver Anjo, John Foley and Edwin Meyer have been checked out.

Sup. Raymond critical of proposed land bill

OAKLAND — Worried about the prospect of entire subdivisions being created without any review by the county's zoning process, Supervisor Valerie Raymond suggested this week that colleagues ask a state senator to plug a loophole in his bill.

Sen. Peter Behr, a noted conservationist, apparently did not intend the loophole, but the way his bill stands now all a landowner would have to do to build a subdivision is create a sewage treatment district with approval of a local water board, the Bay Regional Water Quality Control District and the county's Local Agency Formation Commission.

Not once would the landowner come in contact with the county's planning commission and the only contact with supervisors would be the two supervisors who sit on the five-member LAFCO board.

It's likely that LAFCO would never let such a thing happen, but you never know, said Raymond. It's better to write to Behr and ask him to close the linguistic loophole, she said. Supervisors will discuss the bill again Jan. 12 as part of a review of their own proposed ordinance dealing with sewage treatment package plants.

Mobile health unit visits to aid Dublin-SR seniors

Anyone interested in the service can make an appointment by calling Karen Pace or Rosalinda Tovar at 881-6514 Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m.

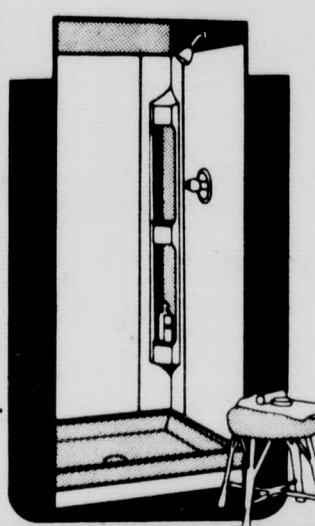

The Health Care Van is being used to increase access of the senior population, especially in low-income areas, to preventive and health maintenance.
